PENNOCK DEFEATS SHERDEL 3 TO 2 IN ANOTHER MOUND DUEL

ALABAMA POWER SPENDS HUGE SUM UPON OPERATIONS

Gas Consumption Is Increased In Cities, Says Manager

$40,000 IS SUM INVESTED HERE

Lower Rate Is One Of Reasons For The Increase

Improvements costing $40,000 were started today at the gas plant of the Alabama Power Company. Necessary excavations were begun at the Lee Street plant by the Dixie Construction Company this morning. It was learned through Garner Pride, local manager.

Albany-Decatur is consuming considerable more gas than formerly, according to Mr. Pride, the increased output which will result is an absolute necessity.

Improvements include the installation of a new "holder" and "gas bench" and will supply 100,000 cubic feet of gas as an increase. It is anticipated that the construction will be completed by November 25 and the necessary connection at that time will not effect the local gas supply.

In talking of the increased local consumption Mr. Pride believed that the increase is due to the greater use of gas for cooking. He explained that not a great deal of gas is used for heating purposes. He likewise added that the rate here is lower than in other cities in the northern section of the state.

Increased efficiency likewise comes in for a share of the reason for the increased consumption. Charles F. Voltz, district superintendent of Albany-Decatur operations of the company, is making every effort to correct all discrepancies in service, bringing the quality of gas to the highest possible standard and giving continuous electric service.

The announced investment of the company is the second improvement made in the same department within the period of a few months.

GROWTH OF CITY REVEALED BY FIGURES TAKEN FROM ROLLS

Automobile Assessments Are Placed At Slightly In Excess Of Half Million Dollars

Tax assessments in the City of Albany made a net gain of approximately $140,000 in the past year, it was revealed with the completion by Assistant City Clerk John Wilks of the assessment roll for payment of taxes this year. GREEN DOES NOT NOTICE ACTIONS

Labor Chief Passes Action Of Detroit Churchmen

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 7.—(AP)—Following the recommendation of President William Green, the American Federation of Labor resumed the regular order of business soon after the opening of the morning session today without approving formal action upon the withdrawal by Detroit churches of their invitation to labor speakers.

After two addresses from the floor deploring the actions of Detroit churchmen, President Green recommended ending the discussion without a formal expression of the convention.

"It is the opinion of the chair that this unfortunate situation already has made greater demands upon our time, than our business program can well afford," Mr. Green said. "The delegates are acquainted with the facts so far as known to the chair, we feel that our organization has not been injured by reception of the convention here, and now earnestly recommend that the matter be considered closed."

The convention assembled today with a recommendation to answer "in a very emphatic fashion" the action of the churches and Y. M. C. A. as especial order of business.

NATION'S BUSINESS REGARDED STABLE BY MANUFACTURER

Survey Points To A Good Fall And Winter Trade

QUESTIONNAIRE IS FAVORABLE

Industrial Peace Is Seen For The Rest Of This Year

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(AP)—The continuation of the nation's present commercial activity into the beginning of next year is indicated in a trade survey by the National Association of Manufacturers, presented to the Association at its convention here today.

The survey was made by a questionnaire covering 16 basic groups of manufacturers. A summary of the answers shows a favorable view of current and winter trade prospects, a higher level of employment and wage conditions, an increase in production sales quantities and values and a prevailing industrial peace.

The consensus of present trade is 10 per cent excellent; 73 percent good to fair and only 8 percent poor. On winter prospects 16 percent report excellent, 83 percent good to fair and 1 percent poor.

Fifty percent predict better business than in 1925, 25 percent unchanged and 25 percent poorer.

Reported increases in production average 17 percent and decreases 19 percent. Reported increases in sales quantities averaged 16 percent and decreases the same. Sixty-eight percent report an increase in employment since last fall and 89 percent report higher wages.

A suggestion for maintaining and improving the nation's business is by solution of farmers problems through affording him a market direct to the consumer and by elimination of politics from consideration of agricultural questions.

Other measures proposed are: "Economy in state and national administration with a view to reduction of taxes;" "maintenance of a proper protective tariff;" "an increase in health conservation;" establishment of national commission for study and prevention of crime;" "extension of foreign trade;" "and encouragement wherever possible of everything built or grown."

First Dannunzio tells how "the purgatory of myself exiled, tortures my soul," then says he couldn't accept "an offer of gold, dazzling gold, jingling vile gold, your American employers have authorized you to offer me in payment for the product of the soul of a poet."

"I say, never. 'Never will my writings be defiled by American gold.' That settles that, for the present." (Continued on page three)

There was little apprehension among the fans when the sun disappeared in a thick haze just before time for play. Gray clouds replaced the blue prevailing throughout the forenoon but there was no very distinct threat of rain.

The stands were filled at game time with thousands standing. The customers were making a determined drive for a third attendance record in three days. Yesterday's crowd numbered 38,825, breaking the previous day's mark with predictions made that the official count today would show 40,000.

The fans looked at Ruth and held up wet fingers to get the wind direction with an eye on the right field stands. During batting practice a wind blew towards the plate but when play was started the wind had changed and was blowing from the plate outward.

A last minute change was made in the Cards' line-up when it was found that Douthit, injured in a collision with Hafey yesterday, would not be able to play. Manager Hornsby announced that Holm would play center field and bat first for the Cards.

BURNING LINER IN N. Y. PORT SAFELY

Menacing Blaze In The Hold Of Byron Is Controlled

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(AP)—The liner Byron, of the National Greek line, with 379 passengers aboard, reached port today with a menacing fire in her after hold, which spread after it was believed under control.

Two city fireboats were ordered to her side at the quarantine station and pumped tons of water into the burning cargo.

Officials of the line assured hundreds of anxious callers there was no danger to the passengers and that no one had been injured.

The fire is believed to have started from spontaneous combustion in hold number five. The major part of the cargo consisted of tobacco, rugs and rags. Great clouds of black smoke attracted the attention of thousands of observers along shore.

A number of tugs and a police launch were standing by and no attempt was made to remove the passengers. Apparently there was no panic aboard, the passengers being observed on the deck watching the fire boats.

Officials expressed the belief that the liner would be able to dock at her Brooklyn pier during the day.

Later the fire boat John Purroy Mitchell returned to its pier and the fire was reported under control, with the passengers still on board.

BANKS TO CLOSE

The local banks will be closed on October 12 in observance of "Fratern Day."

Canadian Plan Is Scored By Church

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(AP)—The system of government control of liquor in Canada is a failure, the board of temperance of the Methodist Episcopal church declares today in a long statement reviewing conditions in the dominion, since the end of prohibition in Quebec and other provinces.

The board explained that its conclusions were based upon a personal survey by Ernest A. Grant, its assistant research secretary and upon government documents, newspaper articles and other material.

First October Fire Recorded

The first October fire called out the Albany department Wednesday, a roof blaze being extinguished with chemicals at 507 Third Avenue, West. The dwelling was owned by Mrs. Penney, of Birmingham, and occupied by J. T. Payne.

Mineral Springs, Ark.—"We use Black-Draught in our family of six children," says Mrs. C. E. Nutt, of this place. "and we find it a good bowel regulator. I give it to my children for colds and constipation, or any other stomach disorders, and it certainly is very helpful. I have never known it to fail them. Where there are so many children, it is a good idea to keep a laxative on hand, and Black-Draught is what we use."

"I have taken it myself for indigestion. I would feel dizzy, have gas and sour stomach. I would also feel a tightness in my chest. I took a good dose of Theodor's Black-Draught when I felt that way and it would relieve me. I would feel better for days."

"My husband takes Black-Draught for biliousness. He says he has never found its equal. When he has the tired, heavy feeling, he takes Black-Draught night and morning for a few days and he doesn't complain any more. I sure do recommend Black-Draught."

TODAY 12 Years Ago

From The Daily of October 7, 1914.
W. A. Petty was elected chief of police, E. W. Collier city clerk and W. W. Callahan city attorney at a meeting of the Decatur council last night.

Seventy-five barrels of beer and whiskey were destroyed on Second avenue this afternoon.

Ed Clark, the polite delivery boy of Mann's meat market, is suffering an attack of fever.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Payne have returned from a summer's stay in North Tonawanda, N. Y.

Mrs. E. F. Jackson is somewhat improved after an illness of several days.

The cold bath liars will soon be in evidence. Something has to take the place of fishermen.

The man who lives in thought of disaster usually goes hand in hand with old man Trouble.

The true type of optimist is the man who wears a straw hat in early October.

The man who sings early in the morning may think his own voice very beautiful, but that has nothing to do with the feeling of his neighbors.

Birmingham has something else to laud over Atlanta. An attorney and a furniture dealer staged a fight in the circuit court.

The first chilly morning of the year in an invitation to buy your fall coat from some local merchant.

Two circuses in one month is certainly giving young Americans of Albany-Decatur a good start for an active winter season.

Now approach the days of cheer for the coal dealer and the blanket vendor. 'Tis an ill wind which blows nobody good.

This certainly is an industrial age. Machines do the work formerly done by men, and can-openers do the work formerly accomplished by the women.

The State of Alabama, according to an Age-Herald news story, finds itself in the same predicament many of its private citizens are in. The expected surplus is really a deficit.

BIRMINGHAM CRITICIZED FOR PERMITTING MANY PEOPLE TO WITNESS HANGING.

Birmingham recently has come in for more than its share of panning because press reports stated that some "500 people" witnessed the execution of a negro convicted of highway robbery.

References are made to the law which throws restrictions about these executions and makes an effort to hide them behind a veil of privacy. No doubt the law has its advantages. Public executions probably would do more harm than good, yet The Daily cannot help but feel that if more people saw the lifeless forms of murderers and robbers dangling at the end of ropes, there would be less crime.

JUDGE GARY FORESEES CONTINUATION NEXT YEAR OF GOOD BUSINESS IN U. S.

In the midst of the natural pessimism which followed the unexpected falling prices in the cotton market, the declaration of Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board of the United States Steel Corporation, that he foresees a continuation in 1927 of the good business which marked the early part of 1926, is, indeed, a cheering note.

"I am more and more convinced," Judge Gary said, "that there is no necessity for any important slump in business any time. Of course, unforeseen changes may occur, and politics and political situations may or may not affect business conditions. But the majority of people want prosperity and will do what they can to maintain prosperous conditions."

Referring to the European steel merger, "he did not see any reason why the American interests should be fearful of the outcome.

"Competition still is more or less the life of trade," he declared. "We have always had competition, both foreign and domestic. We always will have competition, but what we want is friendly competition. Peace and harmony pay better than anything else. In any case, the United States will take care of itself."

The action of Henry Ford in establishing the five-day week in his automobile plants did not win the approval of the venerable steel magnate, although he did not insist that the theory would not prove practicable when placed into practice. He dismissed the action of Mr. Ford with the following comment: "I require more proof before I can be satisfied that men can produce the same result in five days as they can in six. It is obvious that the system would require more men to do the same amount of work."

COMMUNITY WORK IS BREAD CAST UPON THE WATER.

Much work in behalf of Albany and Decatur now is being done by some of the citizens of this community. These workers, however, are in the minority. Much work should be done by citizens who will not meet their civic responsibilities. The Daily hazards the guess that the Twin Cities are not the only ones which find this true of the citizenship-at-large.

The so-called "general public" in nearly every community is composed of two kinds of people. Those who are patriotically unselfish when their community was concerned, and those who feel that the community is in debt to them, instead of owing an everlasting debt to the community which gives them residence and an opportunity to prosper.

Fortunately most people have the privilege of selecting which group they prefer to join. That is fortunate for unusually members of the unselfish group would find little in common with the members of the other.

As the present effort for the community develops, The Daily earnestly hopes that every citizen here will weigh carefully the "pros" and the "cons" of each camp before joining the selfish group. Habit has many tenacles with which to ensnare its victims.

The habit of "letting George do it" is one; the habit of side-stepping civic tasks is another; the habit of saying little things which might hamper others in their effort to accomplish is one of the most loathsome of all, and one of the hardest to escape from; the habit of forgetting liberality when civic subscriptions loom is one of the most common; the habit of indifference to public questions is the worst, for it is the most seductive.

In the other camp are the "boosters," a name which the "knockers" have tried to make offensive, but they cannot do it. As long as the American language exists, the "booster" will serve as a synonym for that individual who thrusts aside the "I can't's" and is firm in his belief that "I can." He is the fellow who really gets results.

In the camp of the "boosters" are most of the successful people. Not all of them, for occasionally a "knocker" is successful also, paradoxical as it may seem.

In the camp of the "boosters" are the fellows the civic leaders, the religious leaders, the professional leaders and the financial leaders know they can count on when there is a big job in any of the respective fields to be accomplished.

In the camp of the "boosters" there are the workers. They have long since realized that nothing really worthwhile is accomplished without work. Many of them perhaps have passed the stage when it is necessary for them to labor in behalf of themselves, but they are happy in their labor for the public welfare. They know that there is no room in this work for slackers.

Before the present civic movement is completed, many citizens will have joined one camp or the other. Let us all hope that the camp of the "knockers" will be small, while the camp of the "boosters" will be full to overflowing.

HASKELL INSTITUTE PLANS DEDICATION OF FOOTBALL STADIUM.

America has grown used to the dedication by athletic fields by various colleges. The increase of interest in sports during the past few years has been so great that most of the major institutions of learning have been forced to build playing fields with larger seating capacity in order to give the public an opportunity to view its athletic teams in action.

In a great many cases the college officials, perhaps, would have rather used the money in some other way, but the demand from the alumni was too insistent. In addition the various and sundry dollars contributed by the alumni and others, by the stadium turnstiles, was not to be despised.

So it is that colleges have been building "bigger and better" athletic plants and dedication ceremonies are nothing new.

From Lawrence, Kan., however there comes a story of an unusual kind of dedication, which probably would interest readers of The Daily. The dispatch says:

Lawrence, Kan., Oct. 5.—Lol the poor Indian hath built himself a stadium just like his white college brothers. It is located at Haskell Institute and every penny of its cost was contributed by Indians, over 50 tribes being subscribers, white money was offered but refused.

It is to be dedicated here Oct. 27 to 30, the dedication ending with an intersectional clash between Haskell Indian school and Bucknell college.

The dedication will show a big contrast in Indian affairs to the observer. While the girls in "tomboy" skirts flirt with the young Indian sheikhs on the Haskell campus during the ceremonies, their elders, clad in buckskins and feathers, will be encamped in a huge village on the reservation near the stadium.

While the most notable Indian of the Kaw tribe, the Honorable Charles E. Curtis of Kansas, Republican leader of the United States Senate is making the speech of dedication, interpreters will tell some of his fellow tribesmen what he is saying.

A small herd of buffaloes is to be brought here from a government game reservation in Oklahoma and barbecued for the occasion. A band of Comanches has begged permission to shoot the bison with bows and arrows for old-time sake.

The world's championship Indian dancing contest will be held in the stadium, illuminated by 6,000,000 candle power of light.

Sport writers probably will look upon the Haskell Institute action as evidence only that the Red Man is displaying something of the business sagacity of his white brother and is preparing to reap his part of the harvest of sheekies in athletics. The more serious minded historians probably will find in the Haskell dedication interesting instances of the extension of the white man's civilization into the Red Man's country.

A BASIS FOR ARGUMENT

TODAY (By ARTHUR BRISBANE)

IT REVEALS a startling change from the other D'Annunzio, not the poet, as he sat before the war at a table in "Durands," opposite the "Madeleine" eating strawberries out of season at a franc apiece, paid for by an American, and eating them as rapidly as a chick picking up grains of corn.

THEY all come here to borrow money, and most polite they were about it, their spines as pliable as any willow branch.

We sent our men and our money, fools that we were, to meddle in their fight and now we get what we deserve. Japan watched, struck not a blow in Europe, lent not a yen, and is respected.

WE need not take seriously a poet who says, "All Alpine peaks belong to me," while standing just now on the peak of foolishness.

But President Coolidge and others responsible for the welfare of the United States know that the feeling of Europe generally is expressed accurately enough by D'Annunzio in these words: "If I could interpret my feeling of hatred for America in terms of fire and flame, it would rise high above even the burning crater of Vesuvius."

THE suggestion that this nation should enter the world court, and submit important questions, or any question whatever, to European judges, filled with hatred of the United States, is so preposterous, you wouldn't expect even a chipmunk to entertain it.

WHAT the United States needs is no League of Nations, or world court nonsense, but five thousand airplanes, the best and the fastest that can be built, trained pilots, plenty of submarines.

Nations recovering from a war drunk can not be expected to appreciate kindness or generosity, but they do remember their war headache. The necessary thing is to be ready to give them another one, on a higher scale, in case it should be necessary.

WE COULD afford to build an adequate flying fleet, Secretary Mellon's management of the treasury makes anything possible. Three months income for the first quarter of the present fiscal year is one billion, five millions and a half of dollars, eighty-five millions more than last year. Why not spend a few of those millions, even two or three billions if necessary, to make this country absolutely

COLLEGE WILL OFFER COURSE

Townpeople Given A Choice To Go To Classes

By D. L. ROSENAU, JR.

ATHENS, Ala., Oct. 7.—Beginning November 1, extension courses will be given by the faculty of Athens colleges for the benefit of the townpeople. The courses given will include Mental Tests, Modern English Literature, Practical Journalism, Health Problems, Art and Music. The course will be given by members of the regular faculty and college credit will be allowed if desired. A small charge of three dollars per person will be made. Another arrangement was also completed this week whereby Athens women will have the opportunity to sit at regular lectures in the student's courses. This extension service is part of the work undertaken by the present administration to be of more service to the community in general.

safe, with such a fleet of submarines and airplanes, adequately manned, as would inspire in European nations the respect they always pay to superior force.

PROFESSOR JEROME DAVIS of Yale reports an interesting talk with Stalin, the real ruler in Russia. Stalin says Russia is willing to pay the money that foolish American bankers lent to Kerensky. Stalin really should do nothing of the kind. Those childish bankers grabbing at usurious interest rates and discounts ought to digest that lesson.

They are now lending billions of the American people's money to various concerns in Europe. Many of those billions will never come back.

HOWEVER, that's another story. The important point made by Stalin is that it might pay the United States to be friendly with Russia. Stalin said that "Russia now needs the United States. Possibly the day might come when the United States might need Russia's friendship."

THAT statement interests President Coolidge more than any other American. He can't help knowing how Europe hates this country and he is responsible for the country's welfare, as president, and as head of the army and navy.

Why not make a friend of Russia, a great country standing between Europe and Asia, the one that has always been friendly with the United States, until the childish bankers tried their usury game and our provincial statesmen conceived themselves entitled to dictate to Europe.

COUNCIL ELECTS CITY OFFICERS

The newly elected city council met Tuesday night and elected the following officers for the ensuing year: W. W. Lay, Superintendent of light and water plant; R. L. Thomas, Chief of Police; Carl Wilson, night policeman; Dock Romine, special policeman and general utility man; O. P. Flynt, traffic officer; R. A. Smith, city clerk. All of these appointees have been in the city service with the exception of Mr. Lay who will assume direction of the power plant and whose election was quite unexpected. Mr. Lay comes from Birmingham where he has had considerable experience in engine building and electrical engineering.

LADIES TO STAGE COUNTRY STORE

The Ladies of the local Methodist church will stage a country store on the evening of October 15th in the building formerly occupied by the Athens Produce Company, the proceeds to be applied towards paying off the debt recently assumed by the Society in the purchase of a new organ for the church.

BISHOP DOBBS TO SPEAK IN ATHENS

Bishop Hoyt M. Dobbs of Birmingham is scheduled to speak at the local Methodist church at 7:30 o'clock on Wednesday evening, October 13th. Bishop Dobbs is well known in Athens, having spoken here many times in the early days of his ministry. He delivered one of the leading addresses at the North Alabama Epworth League Conference here this summer and is also honorary chairman of the half million dollar endowment drive for Athens college, Governor W. W. Brandon being general chairman.

MANY ATTEND STATE FAIR

The early morning trains have received liberal patronage from Athens' people on account of the Alabama State Fair at Birmingham, the station on several mornings this week looking as though a convention were about to be held. Most of those going made the round trip in one day, one old timer remarking that he was going down just to "size 'er up" and see whether it was as good as the Limestone County Fair last week.

PRESIDENT WELLS ADVOCATES PERMANENT FEDERAL RESERVE

Error On Side Of Moral Fairness And Economic Reasonableness Discussed In Los Angeles Talk Of Banker

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 7.—

(AP)—Error on the side of moral fairness and economic reasonableness in the settlement of war debts rather than terms that would prove unduly burdensome on debtor countries, was advocated here today by Oscar Wells, president of the American Bankers Association in the president's address before the opening session of the annual convention of their organization.

Mr. Wells advocated a permanent and unlimited charter for federal reserve banks and discussed problems of financing the farmer and credits at home as well as abroad.

Bankers above all others realize the necessity of looking into the ability of the debtor to pay, Mr. Wells told the convention. They have learned, he said, "The value of appraising the liquidating powers of those who may be in default or who may be suffering from debt depression. The principle here is the same, and, if I may take the liberty of interpreting the attitude of this group, I would say that though we feel that our government has been practical, broad minded and liberal in dealing with our debtors in the matter of these debt settlements, our influence will be exerted in favor of a policy making such terms as may be necessary in order that the sums to be collected may not be burdensome beyond the ability of the debtor countries to bear; we would rather err on the side of normal fairness and economic reasonableness. One would need the vision of a prophet to undertake at this time a forecast of the outcome of this perplexing situation. It is not strange that the issues involved in it continue to afford opportunities for public opinion to occupy itself.

"There is yet the troublesome element of assessing the reparations and fixing the extent of their influence upon the various intergovernmental claims and obligations. Among the considerations to be given to the final understandings, upon which a settlement must rest, are those involved in tolerance, sympathy, a mutual faith and confidence in the purposes of both of the contracting parties. Unless the population of the various countries are actuated by such principles of mutual regard for the viewpoints of those with whom they differ the settlements will not be made on the right basis. It is to be deplored that some symptoms have already presented themselves as reflecting a spirit of critical suspicion concerning the righteousness of our position. Even as when difficult problems need solving we should abstain from developing the habit of finding fault. No enduring agreements can be made through acrimonious debate and being the creditor nation we dare not ignore the greater responsibility for making a program which will include no more than is practically obtainable and at the same time is compatible with an early return to normal economic relationships. This would be in keeping with the circumstances under which America entered the war. Nearly one-half of all our exports are sold in Europe which accounts for our interest in the restoration of the purchasing power of the European countries and the maintenance of accustomed trade relations. It is conceivable that impoverishment might easily prove to be more costly than debt adjustment.

The number of these branches would be further limited according to population.

October Offers Three Circuses

While thousands of people enjoyed the highly entertaining and expert performances given Wednesday by Christy Bros. Shows, attraction for a day and night here, two other big shows will be shown here during October, it was stated here today. Carl Hagenbeck and great Wallace shows are scheduled for October 16 and it is understood that Ringling will come here on October 30, although no advertising material has yet been seen in the cities.

BEREAN CLUB, MRS. WEBSTER HOSTESS.

The home of Mrs. Vienna Webster was lovely on Wednesday afternoon when she had the Berean Club members at their first meeting of the season.

Fall flowers added bright touches to the room where the guests were seated. Mrs. L. P. Troup, the president, called the meeting to order and after the club personnel repeated the Lord's prayer in unison, she made a few appropriate remarks, this being the opening meeting of the club year. She presided over the meeting in her usual gracious and charming manner. Routine business was transacted.

Roll call was responded to by each one present answering the question, "Why Am I a Member of the Berean Club?" Mrs. D. D. McGeehe gave the principal address of the afternoon in which she presented the history of the Israelites up to the time of the Minor Prophets, a study of the latter being the work scheduled for the year. Mrs. McGeehe made her talk more interesting by the use of charts and explanatory notes. The club then repeated the names of the Minor Prophets and this was followed by the singing of "Blest Be The Tie That Binds" with Mrs. Woodruff presiding at the piano.

The club benediction closed the meeting.

There was a good attendance and much interest and enthusiasm was shown. During a social half hour, the hostess served delicious refreshments consisting of ice cream, cake, mints and nuts. The next meeting will be with Mrs. R. T. Tyler and Mrs. Z. Trimble at the home of the former.

BENEVOLENT SOCIETY

The Benevolent Society held a meeting on Wednesday afternoon in the director's room of the Morgan County National Bank. It was opened with the members offering silent prayers with bowed heads.

A very good attendance was there with Mrs. Ike Scheer, the president in the chair. Mrs. John D. Wyker acted as secretary in the absence of Mrs. Hal Mullen.

A good deal of business was attended to during the afternoon, the most important event of the afternoon session being the designating of the week of October 18-23rd as Benevolent Society Hospital Week. A membership drive will be put on during this time and there will be a plan that everyone swell the funds by taking a membership in the Society. The treasury is very low while the calls are increasingly numerous.

MARRIED LADIES BRIDGE CLUB

The married Ladies Bridge club met on Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. D. S. Echols with only one of the members absent and her place was filled by Mrs. R. N. Harris.

Mrs. D. S. Echols won the club prize and Mrs. Harris was given a token of the afternoon.

How to Gain 5 Pounds in 30 Days

Ask Caddell Drug Co. or any druggist for a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets. They cost but little, are sugar coated and as pleasant to take as candy. Skinny men and women take them to speedily put on plenty of good, healthy, solid flesh, and for this purpose they are so extremely good that thin men and women often take on 5 pounds or more in 30 days. As a matter of fact, all druggists are authorized to return your money if you don't take on 5 pounds in 30 days. One thin woman gained 15 pounds in six weeks. Insist on McCoy's, the original and genuine—60 Tablets—60 cents.

'NO, NO, NANETTE' RANKS WITH BEST

John E. Young One Of Best Comedians Ever Seen Here

A year or two ago someone conceived the idea that it was possible to produce a musical comedy built on the theme of happiness, without resorting to undraped feminine figures and raucous humor. He called his collaborators in and the result is "No, No, Nanette."

The Princess has given to the local public some poor productions and many good ones in the normal course of its existence, but it has never offered local theatre-goers a better musical comedy than "No, No, Nanette," which played here yesterday, matinee and night. In the evening audience there were some who had attended the matinee... it was that kind of show.

As small as this community is, were "No, No, Nanette" to play again tonight at the Princess, the audience would be larger than it was last night. Those who saw it would want to see it again. Those who did not attend last night will have opportunity to be reminded by those who did exactly how much wholesome enjoyment they missed.

In these days, when some theatrical producers have gone to such lengths to thrill, if not uplift, their audiences, "No, No, Nanette" stands forth as one of the greatest arguments for cleanliness in musical comedies on the American stage. The usual suggestiveness is entirely absent. "I want to be happy, but I won't be happy until I make you happy too" are the words of the principal musical number and it appears to have been of this theory that the producers conceived their show. The infectious humor catches the fancy of the audience at the start and carries along in splendid fashion through the final act. Several curtain calls followed the finale last night which, in Albany-Decatur, is the highest praise which could be bestowed upon a visiting company. Unusually the insurance agents in the local audiences are breathless with fear as they view the mad rush for exits.

The company appearing here was entirely capable, although the show is largely carried by John E. Young as "Jimmy Smith" and Madeline McMahon, as "Nanette." Mr. Young seemed to get everything possible out of his role, a successful publisher of Bibles, but an exceptionally poor judge of feminine character. That is, at the start. Toward the end of the story, he remains a successful publisher, but has "learned about women" from various sources. In his efforts to make others "happy too," he becomes involved in four separate escapades and his own efforts and those of his lawyer friend, played by Joseph Herbert, to straighten his complicated affairs is the story upon which the dialogue rests.

Demonstration Clubs Gather
The Morgan County Council of Home Demonstration clubs met in Hartselle, Saturday afternoon, October 2, 1926, in the office of the demonstration agent.

The house was called to order by the president and in the absence of the secretary, Mrs. J. J. Dinsmore was appointed to serve in her place.

The roll was called and the following responded: Priceville with two members, Falkville with five and Danville with one.

The Girls' Club of Falkville had two leaders present, Danville, Ryan and Priceville Girls' Club each had one leader present.

In the absence of the secretary-treasurer, we had no report from her.

The club secretaries were next asked to hand in their reports without reading, as we were limited in time.

The demonstration agent then gave an account of her work since last council meeting.

Unfinished business was called for and the council authorized the treasurer to pay Miss Hamilton $8.95 due her for camp expenses and canning demonstrations, also $4.73 due for expenses on motion pictures and $10 for the printing of programs for Girls' Short Course.

Mrs. Tom Price gave such a satisfactory account of her new water system as to make us each want one of our own.

Danville invited all the clubs to attend her Community Fair to be held some time in October.

New business was next called for and the presidents of the women's clubs, local leaders of the girls' clubs, together with the president of the Council were appointed by Miss Hamilton to plan for a rally day to be held in Albany-Decatur about the last of November or the first of December.

A general meeting of rural and city folks to make plans for a community market was planned for December 2nd in Albany-Decatur. Miss Williams, agent of Tuscaloosa will be with us. Her clubs are operating a very successful market in Tuscaloosa. Our plan is to begin our market early in the spring. Plans for market leaders and a school for their instruction were discussed.

A motion was made and carried to secure the garden letters by Mr. Gibbons for the club members.

Next the Council passed a motion to federate with the State Federation of Women's clubs and the treasurer was authorized to pay the $3 dues.

Mrs. Price, our president, was elected delegate to our district federation to be held on Tusculum in October.

Instructions were then given by Miss Hamilton about our annual report. She next discussed our need of local leaders and how they can help in the extension work.

After this we had a round table

ORDER OF PUBLICATION
Dora Lentz vs. H. C. Lentz.—Circuit Court, Morgan County, Alabama.—In Equity.

In this cause, it appears to the Register, from the affidavit of solicitor for complainant, that defendant H. C. Lentz is a non-resident of Alabama, and that his residence and postoffice address are unknown, after diligent effort to learn the same. It is therefore ordered by the Register that publication be made once a week for four consecutive weeks in the Albany-Decatur Daily, a newspaper published in Morgan County, requiring said defendant to plead, answer or demur to the bill in this cause by October 16, 1926, or in thirty days thereafter a decree pro confesso may be taken against him. This September 16, 1926.

discussion of the re-organization of the clubs.

Miss Hamilton announced to the clothing leaders that Miss Eddy will be here October 11th, 12th and 13th to instruct them. She also announced that Mr. Barnes will be in the county Wednesday, October 6th, in interest of home water systems. Mr. Green, October 14th to make club pictures, and Mr. Faris, Horticulturist, November 8th and 9th in interest of gardens and landscaping.

The Council then adjourned to meet with Mrs. Tom Price in December. Council officers will be elected at that time.

Falkville Girls' Club Meet

The Falkville Girls' club met in regular session October 5th, 1926, with their leader, Miss Hamilton. In the absence of the president, the meeting was called to order by Elma Stevens. The roll was called and the minutes of the last meeting were read.

We re-organized and twelve members were enrolled for the year 1926-27. We elected new officers as follows: President, Pauline Crow; Vice-President, Eloise Knight; Secretary, Sarah Thompson; Cheer Leader, Azalee Tucker. We then divided our club into two groups. Azalee Tucker was elected captain of the Reds and Ruby Bell of the Blues.

Mrs. Elliott, one of the teachers of Falkville school, visited our club and gave a very encouraging talk, which was enjoyed by all.

Miss Hamilton gave us new record books and a new secretary's book for the coming year. She showed us materials of the different kind of weaves and gave us samples, which were required to be put in our record books for November. She assigned our work for the next meeting.

We closed with an action song and our club pledge with the intentions of meeting again in November.

Ton Litter Work

An interesting phase of swine husbandry for the past few years has been the feeding of a litter of pigs to weigh a ton when six months old. At Scottsboro the other day, I saw a litter of nine that weighed 2550 at six months old, and a litter of eleven that weighed 2215 at five months and 10 days. These pigs had cost about five cents a pound to grow, and were in prime condition for market. They were fed according to the Auburn method.

Will be glad to hear from anyone who may be interested in growing a ton litter.

Dig Sweet Potatoes Early

Sweet potatoes should always be dug before frost. Careful experiments made by the Experiment Station at Auburn have proved that potatoes dug before the vines are frosted or the ground chilled keep very much better than those dug after frost.

Break the stem from a potato. If the sap dries white, the potato is mature and will keep easily. If it dries dark, the potato is immature and will not keep so well. But even an immature potato should not be left in the ground late, as frost will make it doubly hard to keep.

Fall rains which cause potatoes to take a second growth, invariably

E. H. Nethery, Hartselle, Route 2 farmer, while not liking the slump in the price of cotton, still does not regard the slump as unusual. Mr. Nethery believes that the slump falls on an average of once every four years. He declared that the price at present is just about taking care of the cost of production.

Love Goes Adventuring In—
by COSMO HAMILTON
Author of SCANDAL & BLINDNESS & VIRTUE
Published by arrangement with First National Pictures

Pollock took a backward leap too. The mood was catching, but he had arrived at the age when the past begins to assume a greater importance than the future. "It was at Reading on one of those glorious whisky crawls that I first met you, Kitty. What a handsome girl you were, my dear. An asset to the Line. No wonder the G. W. R. paid good dividends in those never-to-be-repeated times. I have only to shut my eyes for a moment to see George Cornish weeping alcohol and clinging to the bar as it went round and round the room. Dear old Cornish! How magnificently he earned the right to call himself the 'Last of the Brandies.'"

"Thanks most awfully," said Tony, democratically but with a royal smile. "I'll make a note of it." And he shot a wink at Chrissie as who should say, "he's trying to pull my leg."

Lady George finished her drink and struggled to her feet. She was bored, and if the truth must be told, annoyed. It seemed to her that Sherwood, presuming on the fact that he was host, had talked too much. "Are you going to sit 'ere all night, Lummey, or what's the bally notion? Can't yer look at the time, pray?"

"I beg your pardon," said the patient punchball, gathering up his wife's inevitable litter.

"Yes," said Pollock, "bed's a good place, I think. Sherwood, I never gave you credit for a satirical turn of thought. Something of a dark horse, my boy." He would have added "for a grocer," being rude, but that he remembered, just in time, the fact that he was Sherwood's guest.

He mixed a last whisky and soda to carry to his room. So long as one hand was in reach of civilization, he would stick to old habits. With his fastidious nose and a mind as eager for constant stimulants as was his soft body, he was the last man in the world to become a native of any other island than the one upon which he had been born. And on that he could only be happy on a spot that was well within the four-mile radius of Piccadilly Circus. No comfort for him unless his loin cloths were made in Sackville Street.

Not in the perfunctory manner of a Mediterranean but with the instinctive deference to elderly womanhood which was one of his habits, Tony touched Lady George's hand with his lips. "Good night," he said affectionately. "Sleep well."

And Lady George paused heavily, drew him close and made him a present of a resounding kiss.

"You're right," said Lady George sadly. "The boys of to-day can't hold a candle to the boys of yesterday."

"Or a bottle," said Pollock, in the same spirit of regret.

Algernon Lumley began to put away the cards in their respective boxes. "He was a neat person. And, naturally enough, he took extreme pleasure in hearing the praises of his predecessor. He owed him a deep debt of gratitude for having married Kitty, died so conveniently, and left her with an income upon which he had long enjoyed the ability to live as a gentleman of independent means."

Chrissie had fallen asleep in a huge armchair in which she looked younger and smaller than ever, and Tony had gone to sit on one of his arms with a proud proprietary smile. "The one and only Chrissie," was written all over his boyish face.

Still curing himself for a blundering fool, Sherwood continued to act the part of Charles, his friend, by beaming at them both. It required a frightful effort.

Whereupon Sherwood began to paint a picture of a new Elysium with a brush in which there was a subtle mixture of poisonous ridicule. "I begin to see that Paradise Island may be made to run true to its name," he said. "Having built a Buckingham Palace consisting of two large rooms near enough to the surf to make a bathroom superfluous, Tony can start a colony for ultra-civilized people who pine to rock back to nature without a censorship. With Lady George wearing a costume of the most fashionable tattoos, living rent and light free with the Colonel on the South East corner, and Mortimer Pollock becoming more and more simple on a quiet spot near by, what to prevent Tony from blossoming into a benefactor by throwing the place open to a select number of similar, fed-up who play a decent game of bridge? He and I and you can make a list at any minute of the most eligible candidates of also-rans who will immediately shed all semblance of civilization on Pollock's delightful lines and the fact can be devoted to the good work of leaving them over from time to time. And so that there shall be no overcrowding and the reputation of the house no problem as we know it in poor old London, where its lands can be picked over by their present owners in the local way which will keep Tony's hand in. By these means, gradually, the whole of the old aristocracy can be brought over to live and die gracefully on and under the magic coconut tree. There are only about two hundred of them left over from the war, in any case, and by intermarriage with the natives, a new splendid race will spring up, among whom Tony will be King with Lords and Ladies of the Bellelamher who will inherit the knowledge of their intimate and diplomatic jobs from the original settlers whose names are at present to be read from left to right in every number of the Tattler, poor but proud. Paradise and its allied islands would thus become the happy hunting ground of aristocratic sportsmen without the necessity of doing anything but fish and shoot and play cards and gamble with coral as they did in the glorious days of Charles I. before Cromwell messed things up."

He rose and with respectful gravity to Tony. "I have the honor respectfully to submit to your Majesty that rough outline of a scheme." And added inwardly, "which you'll never have the chance to do more than consider, because next time I pounce I'll have it."

They fell together—David and Jonathan; rolled together, clasped in an embrace; first, enjoin on, then the other, both exerting every effort of muscular strength for supremacy; while to Chrissie, drowsing and terror-stricken, Tony, gasping for breath, called out, "Stand clear, dear old thing. Fetch nobody. Do nothing. This is all private—yow. It's going to be—quite—easy. It was obvious that he was anxious to prevent the crew from knowing anything of the owner's madness. (Didn't I say he was a blooming gent?)"

Sherwood wrestled with all the little power of a man, rejoicing in the realization of a fact so often rehearsed in thought. To him this was a fight to a finish, a fight legitimately brought on by an unfavorable instigation. Manly laughter! Well, by God, there was a difference between that and murder. Once let him bounce the wind out of this damned self-satisfied thief and die his hands into that laughter-making throat—

Illini Football Without Grange Will Show Star's Drawing Power

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO. — Just how great is the drawing power of “Red” Grange, the famous University of Illinois football star who heard the siren call of “Cashandcarry” Pyle and became a professional, will be demonstrated this fall in attendance at the games of the Illini.

In past years the coffers of the Orange and Blue institution have been mightily swelled by Grange's playing, as football fans over the entire country fought for a chance to watch him dash over the white lines. Grange's absence has caused dire predictions as to the Illini drawing power without a Grange have been made but early indications are that the passing of Grange is not going to be particularly felt.

Early reservations for the Pennsylvania-Illinois contest, to be played at Urbana, October 30, indicate this game will prove the stellar attraction of the season. Pennsylvania is the first big eastern eleven to play in the Urbana stadium and followers of Coach Bob Zuppke and his men are keen to watch the Illini in an attempt to repeat their victory of last year over them.

While orders for the Pennsylvania game exceed all others, interest is mounting in the Iowa game to be played in Urbana, October 16. The Iowa contest will mark home-coming day.

The third big home game for Illinois is with Ohio on November 20, the last battle of the season.

Illinois will also play Butler, Chicago, Michigan, and Wabash, all the games scheduled at Urbana with the exception of the Chicago and Michigan clashes.

SAME LINEUP FOR CRIMSON

Line To Weigh 186 From End, Backs Average 160

The same team that started against Vanderbilt last Saturday will probably be the one to start against A. and M. injuries of unknown proportions now endured by Johnson, Pickhard and Bowdoin to the contrary unless such injuries get more troublesome.

That line-up has Winslett and Enis at ends; Pickhard and Perry at tackles; Bowdoin and Hagler at guards; Holmes at center; Captain Barnes at quarterback; Caldwell and Brown at halves and Johnson at fullback.

The most likely reserves to enter the game are Payne, a tackle or guard; Penrose, a tackle or center; Pepper and Revera, back and end, respectively; Taylor, a back and Skidmore, a guard.

It will be a Crimson team that will weigh for an average of 186 pounds from end to end and about 160 pounds in the backfield. It will be a veteran team to some extent, because of the fact that every man to start in such is the opening line-up, has played enough in past years to earn a letter with the exception of Hagler.

The Crimson squad will leave Friday morning for Meridian and will return Saturday night after the game. The some several hundreds of students who are expected to witness the contest will leave here on a special train Saturday morning and return that night.

GUNTER TO RETURN

Dr. J. L. Gunter is expected to return from New York Friday, where he has been for several weeks. Dr. Gunter today advised friends of his return.

KIWANIS TO MEET

The Albany-Decatur Kiwanis club will meet this evening at 6:30 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. It is probable that a report will be made upon the success of the Country Store, which is believed to have been greater this year than in previous years.

What makes It's the tobacco that makes the cigarette

THE tobacco itself is the thing. The paper is merely to hold the tobacco. That's why a cigarette made with Prince Albert is the grandest home-rolled article you ever put in your mouth. Better tobacco, better cigarettes—that's the long and the short of it.

Buy yourself a tidy red tin of good old P. A. today and roll some corking-good cigarettes. Notice how easily this tobacco rolls. Doesn't fly or flutter if you happen to breathe on it. That's because Prince Albert is crimp-cut. But this is a detail. The tobacco's the thing.

Tommy Sewell is one brother and Sidney Cohen is the other. Tommy carried letters twice as a ball player at Alabama and this year will captain the Alabama nine. Sidney was only a freshman first baseman last year, but is expected to step right in as a varsity man this season. Both are stars of the future, with many, many things to learn about this game of baseball, according to their older brothers.

The elder Sewell makes his home in Tuscaloosa during the winter. The elder Cohen departed from the Capstone for El Paso after a visit of a few days.

Albany To Battle Huntsville Hi; Hanceville Calls Decatur Game

Albany Hi school prepared this afternoon a plan of attack against Huntsville Hi school for the game called Friday afternoon at Malone Park at 3:30 o'clock. The Decatur game with Hanceville, to have been played on Decatur grounds, was called off by Hanceville, due, it is understood, to having a number of ineligible players on the team.

Decatur went on to beat this afternoon in a home talent game, the first string against the second team, the Gold against the Black. Coach Kirby sent his men through the drill solely for the purpose of keeping them in trim for the coming battle next week with Morgan County Hi.

Albany will have a revamped line-up to show Huntsville, provided there is no last minute change by Coach Alford. Alford and She'lon have worked this week trying to correct the faults in the Albany line and backfield which blazed forth brilliantly last week down at St. Bernard. The Saints literally sped through the line and around the ends toward touchdowns, the Albany forward wall resembling the famed sifter.

Start in the backfield. Shop, Stinson, Henry Papenburg and L. P. Prie will attempt to negotiate their way across the first goal line for the year. Capital Park who was out of the last game will probably call the signals, with Papenburg and Stinson working at the halves and Bishop at fullback.

In the line Herman Papenburg and Sartor will be called upon to handle the flanks. Thompson, Pride or Martin will take the tackle jobs, with Jackson and Guyton at the guards, Wiggins as a probable guard starter for the afternoon. Terry or Coggins will work at center.

Coach Alford may probably work Thombs into the backfield from the start, holding Stinson in reserve. The team went through its last work this afternoon and the men appeared in splendid condition for the coming of their ancient rivals from the Madison county capital city. Huntsville and Albany Hi have always battled with somewhat of a grudge between them, Albany Hi nothing beneath the feats of last years and the game is certain to be one of the best played on the home lot this year.

The game will be started at 3:30 promptly, Albany Hi workers under Manager Bernstein have been preparing the battle field through the week and with fair weather considerable football talent will be displayed.

Albany Hi faculty members and members of the coaching staff today expressed the hope that the home folks would turn out en masse for the battle, realizing the need for substantial backing from the benches. With the proper support from the sidelines, the home folks will be helped greatly on their road to a win and they are going to need every ounce of energy and strength this week. Huntsville is apparently the heavier of the two and is not lacking in confidence.

Albany Hi is prepared to put up a game fight against the invader and will not lack in punch when the ball is resting near the opponent's goal.

FISHING TRIP

J. E. Wilder and P. T. Rushing left Wednesday afternoon for the town of Crested Butte where they are on a short fishing trip. They expect to return here tonight.

Robertson May Be Out For Year

While Decatur Hi made an excellent showing against Coffee Hi over at Florence last Friday afternoon, the showing cost heavily in men. Robertson and Conley both suffered knee injuries at the opening of the game with the result that Robertson likely will be out the remainder of the year. Conley is expected to be back in form at an early date.
